

New, large-sized vials for salmonella vaccine

AviPro® SALMONELLA VAC E, the live oral vaccine against Salmonella Enteritidis made by Lohmann Animal Health, is now available in larger size vials of 5,000 doses, supplied in packs of ten.

The vaccine, one of the most successful and effective against S. Enteritidis, is added to the drinking water of layers and broiler-breeders. While this is already a convenient way of delivering the salmonella vaccine, the new size will make it quicker and easier, particularly on large-scale poultry farms in addition to saving storage space, says the company.

AviPro® SALMONELLA VAC E, the first live vaccine against S. Enteritidis, avoids the need for individual handling and injection of chicks and stimulates strong immunity giving long-lasting protection. It does not survive in the environment or interfere with serological monitoring schemes.
